OpenText meets organizations' translation and localization needs efficiently and with the utmost quality, regardless of the type, size, language or volume of translation needed.

Consistency

OpenText ensures consistency, from pre-production through to project completion. Once a customer provides content, OpenText confirms the scope of work and assigns the most qualified team members to the project. Resource professionals have, on average, more than 15 years of language experience.

On-time delivery

OpenText confirms all delivery parameters and manages the project to meet required turnaround times. The Translation and Localization Services team keeps an open and transparent dialogue with customers to resolve issues surrounding unforeseen delays caused by non-controllable events.

Convenient service

OpenText responds promptly to any questions that customers may have and provides visibility into the project. For example, for large-scale translation projects, the team prepares a plan listing the priorities of each document, including when each is received and when the translation is scheduled to be delivered so customers can easily track progress.

Turnkey solution

For requirements beyond standard text translation, OpenText will find a solution that corresponds to customer needs and stays within budget. For example, if a marketing team needs an Adobe® InDesign® brochure in different languages, the Translation and Localization Services team can work directly from the InDesign files to provide the final files localized into the required target languages and ready for print.
